Declaration of Conformity on Perfluoroalkyl Chemicals (PFAS)

Dear Madam or Sir,

under the European Chemicals Agency (ECHA), perfluoroalkyl chemicals are listed as problematic for the environment. Perfluoroalkyl chemicals are divided into short-chain and long-chain PFAS. Short-chain PFAS are very persistent and disperse in the environment through water in a very short time. Short-chain PFAS are compounds with fewer than seven perfluorinated carbon atoms. Long-chain PFAS are also very persistent in the environment and in living beings, and some PFAS accumulate in various organisms, including humans.

It is hereby confirmed that W. Köpp GmbH & Co. KG does not intentionally use or add any perfluoroalkyl chemicals in the production of current foam grades. The only exceptions are our fluor sponge-rubber molded parts (FKM).

Should developments occur which have an influence on availability, technical or commercial product properties, we will inform you immediately.

Please note that this declaration applies exclusively to the condition of the articles as they leave our production facilities. The Köpp Company(s) do not accept any liability for other materials or processes used, supplemented or further processed in combination with the qualities manufactured or distributed by us.

Best regards,
